At leatherhelp.com we don't ask for your business until we have earned your trust. We work to earn that trust by creating valuable articles and videos to serve you. We feel the same way about recommending other leather retailers to you. We make sure that you are served by the online leather retailers that we suggest to you. So please read the informative articles listed below for each of the online retailers before you consider buying anything from them. Then feel free to ask us any questions you have about choosing, caring for or solving problems with their products. Here are the online retailers we recommend and why:

- Saddleback is simply the finest leather bag mfg I've ever seen.
- Careful, you can get lost for a long time on their beautiful site.
- Their bags are not cheap but certainly the finest quality and most beautifully styled bags anywhere.
- I own and love the Dark Tobacco Briefcase.
- I know the leaders of the organization, Dave Munson and Chuck Bowen. Dave has an amazing "rags to riches" story. Read about it on his site.
- Dave gives you some valuable insights in his article on leather bags, click here to read it.
- If you have a Saddleback bag and want to tell us about it send us a few pix. Here's my "I love my leather" story about my saddleback leather bag.

WILSONS LEATHER

- Wilson has a fine selection of leather jackets, bags and accessories for both men and women.

- If something catches your eye check back regularly. Wilson has good prices and even better sales and deals on name brand designer jackets and bags.

- Here is an article they have shared with you: Storing your leather goods

Here is another article from Wilson: Shopping and Caring for your leather goods

- Be sure to ask us any questions you have about a specific jacket or bag that interests you. They carry all the different types of leather we discuss on the site. Finished leather, distressed leather, faux leather, suede/nubuck and each one needs unique needs for protection and care.
