

Saving my Customer a 7 Month Wait.

Written by Administrator

Tuesday, 05 January 2010 22:17 - Last Updated Tuesday, 05 January 2010 22:17

It's great when my work can really save someone a substantial amount of time or money. In this case, it was a lot of time. But first, let me show you the work. I just performed these repairs recently for a retail delivery customer in Baltimore.

Sure the repairs came out well and I'm pleased for that. But the kicker here is that this was a custom made set that came from Italy and because of some other complications took almost 7 months to arrive. So if I could not repair the damages to near new condition, the sofa would have had to go back and who knows how much more time would have been lost. The customer was certainly not thrilled with the damages before hand but as they say... "all's well that ends well".

Saving my Customer a 7 Month Wait.

Written by Administrator

Tuesday, 05 January 2010 22:17 - Last Updated Tuesday, 05 January 2010 22:17